TOPICS OF THE DAY IN WALL STREET

Reserve Organization One of the Things "That Might Have Been."

DOOR O BE LOCKED AFTER HORSE IS GONE

Foreign Exchange Market Has Much to Hope from the Farmers and Wheat Exports.

When the Federal Reserve organ-tation is complete there will have een another locking of the stable door been another locking of the stable door after the horse was stolen. Thanks to the deliberate movement of the Senate and its failure to confirm promptly the President's nominations for the Fed-President's nominations for the Fedbrought together before the end of the year. But any attempt to rush it through because of the crisis in the money markets would be worse than useless, in the opinion of those who have studied its possibilities closely. The banks can be trusted now to do the right thing, whatever it may be found to be, but, encumbered by the necessity for shifting their funds to comply with the reserve law, their shifts to act promptly on occasion would be greatly restricted.

The Farmers and Money.

Nobody professes to be able to tell w the deadlock in the exchange mar-tis to be broken, though there is the ket is to be broken, though there is the feeling that if grain exports are pushed with vigor, the resulting bills of exchange will solve the problem. Whether there is a general European war or not, much will depend on the Western farmers. If they hold their wheat for war-time prices, there is not likely to be any relief of consequence. And if, by any chance, there should be a war abroad that prevents wheat from going out of this country, and it is turned back on the farmers, the cent, that the rate accision is sup-posed to be better than was first thought, that Paul Warburg is likely to be a member of the Federal Re-serve Board, that the steel business is picking up and that the President is now talking with the men of big business instead of showing them the door. By the time that comes the in-come yield of stocks at their current prices ought to be suggestive.

Insurgent Wins a Place.

The announcement yesterday from Washington that William B. Thompson, of the brokerage firm of Thompson, Towle & Co., had been elected a Class B director of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York registered the first victory for the medium sized banks of the state in their fight to secure representation on the local reserve board. esentation on the local reserve board. Thompson was the insurgent candidate against the two regular nominees, William Brewster, of Long Island City, and F. F. Peabody, of Troy. The election of Henry R. Towne, the regular nominee of the big banks for a Class B director, has already taken place.

GOES TO PIECES

Appeals, of Richmond, and Federal Judge A. G. Dayton granted the light and heating corporation a period of twenty days in which to file appeal to the United States Supreme Court under a bond of $10,000. Should the appeal be granted the decisions will not go into effect on November 1, as the opinion specified.

Byllesby Properties.

A report of all properties controlled by H. M. Byllesby & Co. for the week ended July 18 shows an increase in output of nearly 15 per cent over the corresponding week of last year. New business contracted for totalled 751 customers, with 468 kilowatts lighting capacity and 719 horsepower in motors.

Oklahoma Gas and Electric.

The Oklahoma Gas and Electric Company, a corporation organized under the laws of Oklahoma, reports for the twelve months ended May 31 gross earnings of $1,142,173 and not earnings, after operating expenses and taxes, of $400,905. After deducting annual interest on the company's 5 per cent bonds' and 6 per cent debentures there remained a surplus of $259,045. This company owns and operates plants for the manufacture and distribution of electricity and gas for light, heat, fuel and power, serving without competition an estimated population of nearly $0,000. Except for occasional brief rallies there was no upturn of note during the day. A number of private condition reports A number of private condition reports were received again, most of them bullish, but all were ignored in view of the European news. Late in the day there were reports from New Orleans that English houses were warning representatives not to ship cotton from this side at present. Part of the alarm here over foreign conditions was derived from the pronounced weakness of the stock market and rumors that a big French banking house, with worldwide connections, was in difficulties.

Southern spot markets were un-whether there is a general European war or not, much will depend on the Western farmers. If they hold their wheat for war-time prices, there is not likely to be any relief of consequence. And if, by any chance, there should be a war abroad that prevents wheat from going out of this country, and it is turned back on the farmers, the bankers of the United States will have their hands full financing the very people for whom big crops seem to promise so much.

Meanwhile, the Interstate Commerce Commission meets and confers on the Eastern rate decision, and the only attention Wall Street pays to its doings is to wish it well out of the way on the news tickers when it wants to read about the German ultimatum or Sir Edward Groy's response to Bonar Law. But some day, unless the worst happens, there isn't going to be any war scare. And then the Street will remember that the crops are magnificent, that the rate decision is supposed to be better than was first thought, that Paul Warbourg is likely to be a member of the Federal Re-

Wheat Soars Again—Corn and Oats Also Up-Coffee Slumps.

Repeating its movements of Tuesday, the local wheat market was a badly demoralized affair yesterday, prices rocketing even more rapidly and erratically than they did two days ago, although the amount of trading was considerably less. At one time there was an advance of 9 cents a bushel recorded, but the pace was too hot, demand slackened, and there was a drop just before the close which left last figures net 60 65 c above those of Wednesday's finish. Amid all the excitement some commission houses were wise enough spot and the second statement some commission houses were wise enough spot and the second statement some commission houses were wise enough spot second statement some commission houses were wise enough spot second statement some commission houses were wise enough spot second statement some commission houses were wise enough spot second statement some commission houses were wise enough spot second statement some commission houses were wise enough spot second statement some commission houses were wise enough spot second statement some commission second seco net 6 6 6 % c above those of Wednesday's finish. Amid all the excitement some commission houses were wise enough to suggest a restriction of trading, and in many cases the advice was taken, giving short spells of comparative quiet. The advance of war risks and the question as to wheat being contraband in case of a general European conflict caused a practical cessation of foreign buying, and it was noted that the upturn night reach a point where foreign owners would be induced to cancel their contracts, although the subset having the property of the case of the contracts, although the subset having the property of the contracts of the case of the contracts of th
